CONSENT FORM FOR TANDEM PASSENGER / STUDENTS

All potential tandem passengers/students please note some discomfort may be involved due to the type of parachute jump you are about to experience. The harness you will be wearing will be tightened to fit snugly both on you and your Instructor's harness. During the climb to altitude, your Instructor will assist you in the hook up process necessary prior to exiting the aircraft. This involves manually tightening the two hip attachment points of your harness to that of the Instructor's, so you both exit as one body. Routine checks will be performed in the airplane, including a final equipment/handles check and an adjustment to your posture for proper exit. The necessary closeness of this procedure might have your Instructor coming in contact with your chest and crotch area, including a final positioning of your head, arms, hips and legs.

Once the parachute deploys and you both are hanging under a good working canopy, your Instructor will again adjust you for a more comfortable glide both to the landing area. Some may experience discomfort in this closeness. You understand it is a necessary procedure to perform a safe and successful tandem jump and that you are not limited to tandem jumping as your first option.
